HURLEY GIVES UP DOLAN PARDON

HURLEY QUITS FIGHT FOR DOLAN PARDON

Plans for pardoning Edmund L. Dolan, J. Walter Quinn and Robert Dinsmore have been abandoned by Governor Hurley, he revealed today between sessions of his executive council.

Meanwhile, startling charges were made today that a Worcester county numbers and slot machine "czar" had "assessed" gambling establishments for contributions to last week's Raymond Patriarca pardon, which brought state-wide censure upon the governor and council.

When Hurley was asked, between sessions of the council, if he had re-submitted the names of Dolan, Quinn and Dinsmore, he appeared surprised and replied:

"Why, no; those have been rejected."

CLASH WITH DEVER

"Well, do you anticipate resubmitting those names?" was the next question.

"I have no such plan," said the governor.

As the council went into session, however, the governor and Attorney General Paul A. Dever were still at loggerheads, with the attorney-general's demand that he be notified of pending pardons as yet ignored.

William L. Reed, secretary of the council, said he would send no notifications to Dever or to the district attorneys interested "unless instructed by the council."

By Governor Hurley it was asserted that Councillor Frank A. Brooks, chairman of the council's committee on pardons, had made two trips to Dever's office but had been unable to see the attorney general.

MERELY "COURTESY"

In the governor's opinion, he said, it is the function of the pardon committee chairman to give such notice, but the governor believes such notification to be a courtesy and not mandatory.

Councillor Brooks himself said that on the second trip to the attorneygeneral's office he left "files and information" with Edward O. Proctor, the attorney general's first assistant.

Probe of reports that the Worcester county racketeer had extracted cash for a Patriarca pardon fund from those who have slot machines in their establishments was being made today by Worcester police and District Attorney Owen A. Hoban of that county.

Hoban asked the Worcester police detective bureau to investigate and report back to him.

"It is impossible for me to say whether or not the reports are correct," declared the county prosecutor, "but their persistency has led me to ask the Worcester police to investigate."

At the same time, Worcester police revealed that efforts had been made there within the past few days to raise "expense money" for a pardon for Tony Santello, Worcester ex-pugilist serving three to five years in state prison on bandit charges.

It was Hoban who prosecuted Patriarca, Rhode Island's "Public Enemy No. 1," for a Webster crime which brought him one of his sentences of three to five years in state prison — from where he was pardoned last week after serving only 84 days.

The district attorney has been

WIDOWED by crash of train and auto, Mrs. Jessie Thistle of Wilmington, holds daughter Phyllis, three, in arms after hearing of tragedy that killed husband, Joseph. Accident took place at Grove st. crossing in Wilmington. Thistle's car was demolished.

Storm Increases Auto Death Toll

Rain and slush on the roads made for perilous driving today and New England added new names to its list of automobile accident victims.

At Cheshire, Miss Mary Gallicher, 25, of Dalton, was killed, and three other persons injured, in a collision of two automobiles.

Joseph Thistle

In Abington, James Tubbs, 25, was sentenced by Judge James Kirby to three months in the house of correction, and fined $100, on hit-and-run charges involving an accident in which an eight-months-old baby was seriously injured.

In Wilmington, in the home of Joseph Thistle, 30, a carpenter, the Christmas tree was dark, and little 3-year-old Phyllis Marie in tears; her mother, expecting another baby, prostrated.

Thistle was killed when his automobile was struck at the Grove street crossing, Wilmington, by a Boston & Maine train.

In Boscawen, N. H., Harvey Littlefield, 17, of Lakeport, was killed when the car in which he was riding overturned. Melvin Chapman, 17, also of Lakeport, was injured.

Mrs. Mary L. Spurr, 62, of Wintrop street, Melrose, died in Melrose Hospital as a result of injuries suffered when struck by an automobile while crossing Main street, Melrose.

Four-year-old Gilbert Gloucier, Walnut street, Lewiston, Me., was killed riding his Christmas tricycle, which rolled off the sidewalk into the path of an oncoming car.

Another eight-months-old baby and four adults were injured in an automobile collision in Abington. They are Alfred T. Balintine, Jr., eight months old; his father and mother; William D. Balintine, Sr., 21, and Norman Balintine, 20.

The baby seriously injured is William, Jr., also eight months old.

The car in which the Balintines were riding was overturned by the crash.

Tubbs returned to the scene of the accident about a half hour later.

He told Judge Kirby the reason he drove away was he had someone in his car whom he "didn't want to get mixed up in it."

After taking this "someone" home, he said, he went back.

Bartolini Plea For 6th Stay Before Hurley

Basing a plea on "newly discovered evidence," Attorney George E. Lourie today was scheduled to appear at the State House in a final appeal to Governor Hurley for commutation of the sentence of Oscar V. Bartolini, Quincy chef, condemned to die for the murder of Grayce Asquith of Weymouth.

Lourie declared he has new witnesses who can testify that John A. Lyons, Mrs. Asquith's sweetheart, has been seen since the murder and is still alive.

Unless Governor Hurley intercedes, Bartolini will die in the electric chair in State Prison during the first week of the new year.

Four reprieves already have been granted him, the last ending Jan. 3. Prison officials stated he probably will die the following night unless a new stay or commutation is granted.

Battle to Save N. H. Sex Slayer

CONCORD, N. H., Dec. 27—Scheduled to walk to the gallows on Friday, Howard Long, 32-year-old convicted sex-slayer of Mark Neville, 10, today began a legal battle to save his life.

Attorneys were scheduled to present a bill of exception to Judge Osgood L. Young of the Laconia superior court, asking a stay of execution.

Long was convicted of killing the Neville boy with an automobile jack on September 15, 1937.

Slain at Stop For Red Light

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Dec. 27 (AP)—Roy Jones, 42, an insurance salesman, was shot and killed today as he waited in his car for a traffic light to change.

William Masiatis, 39, an old acquaintance of Jones, was held on a charge of murder. Masiatis was quoted as saying he thought Jones attentive to his wife.

Police Chief Downey said Masiatis was driving his automobile two cars behind that of Jones and, when the red light halted traffic left his car. The victim was shot four times with a high-powered rifle.

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

Hub Girl In White House Bow

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP)—Miss Eleanor Roosevelt of Boston, debutante niece of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, will be presented at a White House ball tonight to a select section of the east's youthful society.

Scions of old families and pretty debs from Boston and New York flocked to the capital for the dance—the first White House debut party since Miss Helen Taft "came out" 28 years ago. Boston guests took a special railroad car for the trip.

FEAST IN WHITE HOUSE

Eleanor, lively 18-year-old daughter of Mrs. Roosevelt's brother, Hall, is the third Roosevelt debutante to bow at the Executive Mansion. When her great-uncle, Theodore Roosevelt, was President, two of his daughters, Alice and Ethel, were presented there.

Mrs. Roosevelt said that a small dinner party at the White House would precede the ball, with the guests largely cousins.

PRESIDENT TO ATTEND

There will be dancing in the East Room until 3 a. m., after the visitors have been received by the First Lady and her niece. The President will be there to see that his niece and her friends have a good time. Eleanor's father is here for the party.

Eleanor, who is called "Ellie" by her friends, finished at the Winsor school in Boston last spring and made her Boston debut at a Thanksgiving tea given by her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. John Cutler.

BOMBS SINK FREIGHTER

BARCELONA, Dec. 27 (INS)—The British freighter Stancroft, which has been under fire a number of times in the Spanish civil war, was sunk today in an insurgent air raid on Barcelona.

Bitter Cold Due In Hub Tonight, Snow Probable

Sweeping out of the Northwest Arctic wastes, a cold wave rode into the Middle West today and headed for New England.

By tonight or tomorrow it is expected Boston and the rest of the northeast will be in the grip of this winter's most bitter blast, with the mercury down many degrees from today's range.

The weather bureau forecast light rain or snow for early tonight, followed by clearing and much colder, with lowest temperature near 18 degrees.

Tomorrow will be fair and colder, but the mercury tomorrow night is expected to drop to the 10-degree mark.

The first real cold wave of the winter spread hardship and suffering over a wide area in the Middle West, where ground travel was considerably hampered and air travel was halted by heavy snows and blustering winds.

Today the Eastern seaboard was getting a taste of uncomfortable conditions, with the probability that a quick freeze would make them even worse.

Although downtown streets were washed fairly clean of snow and slush from the night's precipitation, mire was inches deep in some of the suburbs.

Tonight this slush will be ice, and from all indications there would be no melting it for the rest of the week.

In western Pennsylvania today scores of automobiles were reported snowbound as the east-bound storm swirled amid the lofty Alleghenies. Power and communication lines were reported down, and considerable other damage had been wrought.

Temperatures had dropped below zero in North Dakota and were falling steadily as far east and south as North Carolina. Readings of 10 below were forecast in parts of Nebraska.

The rate of the mercury's fall was indicated at points in Ohio, where yesterday afternoon the temperature was 37, dropping to 29 by 2 a. m. today, sliding 12 more degrees in the next six hours and still going down as the wave advanced eastward.

The cold wave has swept even as far south as Oklahoma today and the edge is expected to reach Florida.

Dallas, Texas, shivered in temperature of 22 above, coldest of the season, while at Amarillo, the mercury went down to 11.

Montgomery Heir Tells of Bridal Rift

The Montgomerys and the Kelleys resumed their dispute in Middlesex Probate Court before Judge Joseph Monahan today, with beautiful blonde Mrs. Konstance Kelley Montgomery in court, and her youthful husband, John Montgomery, on the witness stand.

Mrs. Montgomery is seeking separate support, alleging desertion.

Young Montgomery, on the stand today, said he tried to effect a reconciliation during the Christmas holidays and failed.

LETTERS UNANSWERED

As to their married life, he testified well, they were married in aJnuary, 1935, but their married life, such as it was, lasted only as long as they kept it secret.

When, finally, on Labor Day, 1937, he told his wife's father they were married, young Montgomery said, the elder Kelley told him he'd "start proceedings" the very next day.

His letters to Konstance thereafter went unanswered, and so he went to Europe, young Montgomery said. When he returned in June, 1938, he said, he was served with divorce papers, but these were withdrawn in November. The present suit for separate support followed.

MADE $12,000 IN 1936

Young Montgomery testified he is a director in several of his father's corporations, his father being W. Robert Montgomery, a promoter and corporation financier. Young Montgomery said he knows little about the affairs of the various corporations, merely signing his name, he said, when directed to do so by his father.

In 1936, he said, his income was $12,000. In 1937, he testified, it was $30 or $40 a week.

Montgomery, Sr., likewise was a witness. He, too, told of the elder Kelley's alleged anger when the marriage became known.

Kelley, Sr., George Fergus Kelley of Lancaster road, Newton, next took the stand.

It was the elder Montgomery, he said, who objected to the marriage.

"He told me his son was destined for the diplomatic service and a socially advantageous marriage," Kelley asserted.

The hearing still is going on.

Girl, 18, Tells of Carols In Face of Death at Sea

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (INS)—Eighteen-year-old Swanhild Larsen today told in a copyrighted story in the New York Journal-American of how she laughed and danced and sang Christmas carols for the crew of the freighter Smaragd before those aboard the stricken vessel, wallowing helplessly in the Atlantic ocean, were rescued by the S. S. Schodack.

Madeleine Carroll of the films blows a kiss from the Normandie as she sails on her yearly trip to the Paris convent where she spent much of her early childhood. Each year the actress gives a party to orphans at the convent.

Swanhild's story follows:

It is well that I begin at the beginning and then you will see I am not supposed to be a sailor after all.

I attended business school and now that I am 18 years of age I am a stenographer. I was, at least, until death tried to catch me out there on the ocean. Now, I guess, I'm a real sailor.

I have been on my father's vessel for the past 17 months. My father brought me along with my mother because he said that travel was part o fmy education.

5-DAY WATCH VAIN

Practically from the time the pilot left us the sea was heavy. For five days, without any sleep, my dad stood on the bridge but he might just as well have stayed below because he had no control over the ship.

The wind and the waves took us where they wanted.

The crew didn't sleep for days, and on Thursday the water reached the engine room. My father said everything was all right. That helped, some.

My mother was in one cabin and I was in another. The dors had been carried away. The steps leading to the lower deck had been carried away.

TOLD FAITH IN GOD

I sat on a table in the gallery and told the crew stories and kept talking and talking to them. I told them stories of cheer and I told them that God would not let us down so close to Christmas.

We were looking for a ship all the time. We had no radio and couldn't send a message. And then—

Thursday I heard the whistle on the bridge blow. I looked out and I saw the ship. I knew our prayers were answered.

I wasn't worried, that is, until Thursday when the chief engineer reported that the water was coming in quicker than he could pump it out. Then I knew we were in danger. I saw the looks on the faces of the crew and I tried to cheer them up.

I danced for them. I told them stories of skiing in the mountains.

Employe Weds A Guggenheim

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP)—The marriage of Barbara Guggenheim Wettach of the wealthy Guggenheim family to Henri Obre, described by the daily news as her former chauffeur, became known today.

They were married here about a week ago, spent a short honeymoon in Nassau and then left for California.

The bride and Fred Wettach, the polo player, recently were divorced. Her first marriage, to Lionel John son, also ended in divorce.

Bury Tragedy Victim

They buried little Mary Bell today from an undertaking parlor not far from her home in Wilmington.

The 6-year-old was drowned in Shawsheen River last Saturday because she didn't believe the ice was too thin.

Her mother, Mrs. Blanche Bell, 29, was not at the burial, for she was still confined in Boston Psychopathic Hospital today.

She was taken there after she had roamed the streets for days on learning of her daughter's tragedy.

Vikenty Bell

Vikenty Bell, the husband and father, was close to collapse himself today and under treatment by physicians.

The emotional upset of his wife marks the third time tragedy has pulled his doorbell.

Her mother was injured in an auto accident the day before the child was drowned.

The little girl's death would have prostrated him if he hadn't had to walk the streets of South Boston and other sections searching for his wife.

Mrs. Bell's condition, which may or may not permit of her attending the funeral, was the final blow.

Bell's finances are not in too good a condition. In recent years, he has been helping farmers and doing odd jobs around Wilmington.

Kane May Ask Commission to Rule Woburn

Mayor William Kane of Woburn today threatened to seek legislation that would put the City of Woburn, recently indicted for failure to appropriate sufficient school money, under a commission form of government.

"This special legislation would supersede all laws relating to the government and management of the city's various departments," he pointed out. "I have hesitated to take this drastic step as I confidently expected the cooperation of the school committee and the city council.

"When I realized that neither of these bodies intended to cooperate and went on a sit-down strike against the interests of the taxpayers, I again hesitated because I had no confidence in the state administration of the governor, who would appoint the commission.

"I can now, however, see the sunlight of hope coming from Leverett Saltonstall. If the school committee and the city council persist in their policy of non -cooperation, it is not a remote possibility Isahall petition the legislature for a commission.

"If this drastic step is taken, the teachers who are blindly led by a selfish committee will be the chief sufferers. They have only the short-sighted committee to blame."

MOVIE Actress Louise Campbell and Horace MacMahon, character actor, are en route to Hollywood today after being married in same church in Chicago where bride's parents were wed. They plan to take honeymoon later. MacMahon is to start immediately on a new picture.

PROBE FATAL N. Y. FIRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (INS) — Suspecting arson, authorities today investigated a fire which swept a Manhattan tenement house, killing one woman, Mrs. Norah McInerney, 58.

35 P. C. Offer Made By Insurance Firm

Claimants seeking damages of $600,000 from the suspended Broad Street Mutual Casualty Insurance Company were offered a guarantee raised from 15 per cent to 35 per cent, at a hearing before Attorney General Paul A. Dever today.

The offer was made by officers of the Broad Street Company as they and representatives of the similarly suspended Canton Mutual Liability Insurance Company sought to avoid forced receiverships.

An attorneys' committee appearing in behalf of 3500 claimants, discussed the 35 per cent Broad Street Mutual offer with the attorney general in the presence of Insurance Commissioner Charles F. J. Harrington.

OFFER TO RESIGN

Attorney Joseph B. Abrams, chairman of the claimants' counsel committee, said Broad Street Mutual officers had agreed to resign, if the offer were accepted.

New officers, acceptable to Insurance Commissioner Harrington, would be appointed, according to the alleged agreement.

Attorney Abram said counsel for the Broad Street Mutual company had admitted its president, William J. Howard, was also a principal executive of the Hub Insurance Company and the Premium Finance Company, subsidiaries with interlocking directorates.

No decision on acceptance or refusal of the Broad Street Mutual's 35 per cent guarantee was made today, according to Attorney Abrams.

NO PETITION FILED

He said no petition for a receivership had yet been made and negotiations toward a settlement would be continued until a deadline, Friday.

What new offer, if any, was made by the Canton Mutual Liability Insurance Company was not divulged.

The Canton Mutual, a Boston firm, was ordered Saturday to suspend operations, as was the Broad Street Mutual.

Insurance Commissioner Harrington found both firms had "impaired reserves," he announced.

Another new development in the insurance claim settlement situation was a prospective 20-per cent payment of claims against the defunct Commonwealth Mutual Insurance Company, closed two years ago by Insurance Commissioner Francis J. DeCelles.

It was reported this 20 per cent payment would be recommended to the state supreme court by former Assistant Attorney General Henry P. Fielding, representing the Commonwealth Mutual receivership.

The new 35 per cent "guarantee" offer by the Broad Street Mutual company was not suggested as a final settlement of claims.

$150,000 AVAILABLE

What the company did offer was to put aside reserves amounting to 35 per cent of the $600,000 sought in damages by claimants.

This fund, according to the offer, would be subject to attachments or judgments, if and when obtained, leaving other assets of the firm free for financial reorganization.

For such reorganization, at least $150,000 was expected to be immediately available, spokesmen for the firm said.

Patriarca 'Pardon Fund' Under Probe

It is understood that Hoban has in his possession the name of the racketeer who raised a "Patriarca pardon fund." This man has been in Worcester county rackets for more than five years.

The same racketeer, it became known also, was responsible for $25,000 cash bail put up at one time for Patriarca. Several years ago he and his slot machines were driven out of Worcester County, but they have moved back.

Patriarca went up to Worcester from Providence about four years ago and was associated with the racketeer in the number pool and the placing of slot machines.

Smarting under the snub by Governor Hurley and the council in still failing to notify him of pardons pending, Attorney General Dever said today:

"This pardon situation is not a closed incident."

While District Attorneys Edmund R. Dewing and Hoban planned further action today against Patriarca, the pardoned convict was seeking work as a carpenter.

In an interview at Providence, Patriarca said:

"I'm going to get a job right away. Then I want to get married and settle down. I think I got my pardon in a perfectly legitimate way. I applied for it the way any other prisoner would."

NEW APPOINTEES IN

Governor Hurley today swore into office, Henry F. Long, reappointed as commissioner of corporations and taxation; Carl A. Raymond, budget commissioner, and Joseph McKenney, former Boston College football coach, as associate commissioner of the Metropolitan District Commission.

The council confirmed today, under suspension of the rules, these appointees of the governor:

Joseph A. Korlowsky, also an ex-Boston College grid star, as a member of the state ballot law commission to succeed McKenney; Daniel A. Murphy, Fall River, as chairman of the Fall River board of police, and Representative Frank W. Smith, Palmer, as clerk of the District court of Eastern Hampden county.

international code and talked to one another by flashlight.

Our second mate had not used the code for 11 years, but he told us later that in the face of such grave danger it all came back to him.

The night we sighted the boat everybody was happy. We got together in the cabin. I sang for them and I passed out pieces of chocolate.

We had no lights; we had no food. Several times I was knocked down, but the crew picked me up and I kept singing.

The rest joined in and the singing went on all night.

Finally it was daylight, and at six a. m. our boat was put over the side. It was smashed.

FATHER SAVES PAIR

Luckily, dad had feared something like that, for he shouted a warning to mother and me just as we were about to get in.

The second boat—from the Schodack—took mother and myself off.

And then I went to sleep. I don't know yet how I happened to get into the stateroom they gave me.

When we landed, we were invited to come here to the Hotel New Yorker. My biggest thrill was when I opened the door and found a Christmas tree all decorated with lights and presents there for me.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP) — Senator Byrd (D-Va.), who has opposed many administration policies, said today he would demand that Congress obtain full information on activities of government lending corporations.

Describing these corporations as "the invisible part of our government," Byrd told reporters they have independent power to create federal indebtedness totaling $16,000,000,000. All-out $8,000,000,000 of this authorization already has been utilized, he declared.

Hub Scientists Cheat Death As Pneumonia Toll Drops

Time was when in dimlit chambers of horror children died like flies under the scourge of diphtheria. Wards, jammed to the doors, at Boston City Hospital, would be half empty by morning—and all night the death carts trundled through the corridors.

An alarm bell would sound as a crisis developed, and whoever heard it would rush to the bedside of a tiny patient, but work was useless. The death rate was as high as 70 per cent.

Then came toxins, first widely used in the Boston City Hospital, first manufactured in quantities by the Massachusetts State Health Department, and the death rate dropped, almost over night to 8 per cent . . . Now diphtheria has been practically conquered.

So it is with pneumonia . . .

By GEORGE W. CLARKE

Copyright, 1938, by The Boston Evening American.

Massachusetts is one of the principal pneumonia centers of the United States, but the palm goes to Pittsburg. Most pneumonia cases are treated in the Harlem City Hospital in New York, where scores of helpless colored folk gasp out their lives despite all efforts to save them.

The death rate for some types of pneumonia—and there are 32 distinct types, you will remember—has been as high as 46 per cent.

That means that more than four out of every ten people who contracted the infection died.

Even in the simpler types the rate was as high as 20 per cent.

The death rate of pneumoncocus meningitis—when the bacteria get into the spinal fluid and the brain lining—used to be 100 per cent.

The death rate for four of the most prevalent types has been practically cut in half. Effective treatment is under way for a fifth and prevalent type. Even dread Type III most baffling of all, seems about to be solved.

How serums have been developed for Types I, II, V and VII was told in the first installment of this series.

It was told how the serums attack the bacteria of each type, swelling the bacteria capsule into the shape of a balloon, and, how, unaccountably, this renders the bacteria subject to attack by white corpuscles, which then gobble them greedily.

BACTERIA "SOFTENED UP"

It was explained that without the "softening up" of the serums, the bacteria was immune.

It was also explained how sulfanilamide, the new, widely-hailed "miracle cure-all" is no such thing, that it only serves to halt multiplication of bacteria, without killing bacteria already present.

And it was stated that while serums alone are best in most cases, sometimes sulfanilamide and serums together work the miracle of a cure. Each of the 32 types, it must be remembered, is a separate and distinct kind of infection.

Here, then, is the story of the practical application of the serums in Boston City Hospital, of the 50 odd papers telling of progress in their uses, prepared by Dr. Maxwell Finland, leader in the study and his associates.

Most prevalent in Massachusetts and Boston is Type I, commonest of pneumonia infections, and the first serums developed and used here were for the possible cure of that type. Type II, a much more serious infection, is prevalent in Pittsburgh, probably because of that city's smoke and turgid atmosphere. Type III, next to Type I, in prevalency, appears here, there, everywhere, and has the highest death rate.

FUNDS EXHAUSTED

It was almost immediately after the influenza epidemic of 1918-19 that Drs. George Sears and Ralph C. Larrabee began the study of serums here. They worked on one general serum for all types, aimed specifically at Type I.

Doses were necessarily large, and after effects were unfortunate. Shock was frequent. A good many patients died, but the good they were able to do more than offset the bad.

Then they ran out of money . . .

One who inquires into the history of the hospital—of all hospitals—finds one condition apparent again and again—out of money. Here, where the need is so great, where lives depend on the continuance of study and treatments . . . It should not be.

Dr. Edwin A. Locke revived the study, with the help of Harvard University, and was assisted by Dr. William H. Robey. Dr. O'Hara was there, and Doctor Parker.

SERUMS EXPENSIVE

It must be understood now that serum treatment for pneumonia is expensive. It runs as high as $150-a-case, with serums to be perfected, treatments to be directed. Now, providentially, the cost has been reduced to from $25 to $100, but it is still expensive.

Dr. Lloyd D. Felton was a pioneer in the typing work, and is now still in at Washington in the U. S. Public Health Department Service, striving mightily to develop an immunizing vaccine which, one day, may end pneumocia for all time.

The greatest advance of all came, probably, when Dr. Ben White managed to work it around so that the state began to manufacture the serums. There was no appropriation available, so funds came from the Commonwealth Fund.

In 1931 the Harkness Foundation agreed to put up $35,000-a-year for five years. The study was really under way.

DR. FINLAND IN CHARGE

Doctor Finland assumed direction of the study in 1929, and statistics are available for succeeding years.

Serum treatments reduced deaths from Type I from 40 per cent to 19 per cent between 1931 and 1937. During that period the percentage of cases treated was advanced from 40 per cent to 89 per cent.

Deaths from Type II were reduced from 36 per cent to 19 per cent in the same period, and deaths from Type V were reduced from 43 per cent to 10 per cent. From 1929 to 1935 deaths from Type VII were reduced from 29 per cent to 12 per cent.

No matter how modest the workers at Boston City Hospital may be, the fact remains the study has centered there. They and the hospital are responsible for tremendous boon to all mankind.

What Boston City Hospital is doing to end pernicious anemia, another scourge of man, in tomorrow's Evening American.

Rescued Vet Ready to Go On

Snatched from death beneath the wheels of a speeding train at Revere, Alfred Richard, 38, of St. Albans, Vt., a World War veteran, was ready to go home from Boston City Hospital today.

Roy Christianson of Marblehead, fireman on a Boston-bound train, saw Richard lying unconscious on the outbound tracks, where a Portland express was scheduled to pass within a few minutes. He called to the engineer to stop his train.

Richard was taken to Boston City Hospital, where he was found to be suffering from hunger and exposure. Relatives said he was on his way from St. Albans to see a sister in Holyoke. His memory failing, he could not tell doctors how he happened to be in Revere.

Find Cancer Cause in New Chemical Discoveries

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 27 (AP)—Two newly found chemical products of the body, which may go far toward explaining the long-sought cause of cancer, were shown to the American Association for the Advancement of Science here today.

The discoveries were presented by the Institutum Divi Thomae, of Cincinnati, a Catholic research institution, sponsored by the archdiocese of Cincinnati, to train young scientists, and concentrating on search for cause and cure of cancer.

White clad sisters, who work as assistants under direction of a group of brilliant young scientists, showed the chemicals in actual making.

One of the new chemicals looked like a pinch of cigarette tobacco, quite dark. The other was pure white crystals.

The dark stuff causes "cell proliferation," the medical term to describe the rapid multiplication or growth which not only happens when the body repairs a wound, but is also the main feature of a cancer. This same brown chemical also causes a speeding up in a process known as glycolysis, one way a tissue cell breaks down sugar to feed itself.

This particular kind of glycolysis is also one of the long-known features of cancer.

The white crystals speed up the way a tissue cell uses oxygen, a cell's substitute for breathing. Here again cancer comes in, for the malignant growths have a different rate of using oxygen.

The Cincinnati scientists find that if the oxygen use of a malignant growth could be speeded up, the cancer might be stopped. This would happen because the 'balance' found in normal growth had been restored.

The "cigarette" chemical caused tumors in animals. The white crystals on transplanted animal caused the growths to disappear.

Delegates Sign Pact of Lima

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 27 (AP)—Delegates of the American republics today affixed their signatures to the 130 resolutions and declarations adopted by the Pan-American Conference at the closing ceremonies of the eighth meeting.

First to sign the documents, the most important of which was the declaration of continental solidarity for defense against aggression, was Narciso Garay of Panama.

In four languages—French, English, Portuguese and Spanish—the acts were designed to link American republics closer in mutual defense, facilitate their communications and improve their cultural relations.

Army, Navy Men Being Won to Air Force Plan

NEW YORK, Dec. 27—A completely renovated theory of national defense, based on the unplumbed powers of the warplane, apparently is in the making in the higher councils of the Army and Navy as President Roosevelt is reported ready to ask the new Congress to build air power up to at least 13,000 flying craft.

Traditionally, the United States has depended on the natural ramparts of the Pacific and Atlantic oceans and a strong navy to insure security.

Military opinion inclines to the belief the contemplated wholesale purchase of warplanes does not connote a lack of faith in sea power but rather a conviction that sea power must be well implemented in the air by a swift-striking bombing force.

AIR FORCE ARGUMENT

Since the 1918 armistice the axiom has grown among military men that air power cannot win a war, but that a lack of air power could contribute heavily to losing a war.

Skeptics contend air power is much overrated. Airplanes have severe limitations in "fire power"—the amount of explosives they are able to lodge on a target in a given amount of time—and in range.

An even more telling argument they advance is the fact that, unless a nation is preparing against war on a definite date, the building of a tremendous air fleet is uneconomical because of the airplane's quick obsolescence.

AIR ARMY VITAL

A key to the new situation in armaments confronting this country may be the anxiety of the armed services to insure the security of the Panama Canal, vital to the movement of the fleet; protect the islands of the Caribbean against any onslaught by a European nation, and provide against the necessity of constructing two complete navies.

Recent establishment of an Atlantic squadron probably indicates the trend of military thought.

Another key to the armaments question is the propaganda value of the warplane. In a world which has witnessed the peace of Munich, no major power is ignoring the prestige which accrues to the country with a strong air force.

2 Million Chinese, 47,133 Japs Killed

SHANGHAI, Dec. 27 (AP)—Japanese headquarters today announced 47,133 Japanese have been killed during 17 months of Chinese-Japanese warfare.

In the same period the announcement estimated Chinese losses at 2,000,000.

Italians Mass At Somaliland

PARIS, Dec. 27 (AP)—Dispatches from North Africa today reported Italy massing troops on the frontiers of French Somaliland.

French colonial officials expressed fears that this might be the start of a campaign to threaten Djibouti, French Somaliland port on the Red sea which is the only rail route for Italy's Ethiopian empire.

Travelers reaching Egypt from Djibouti, said dispatches to the French press, reported that the governor of Djibouti had demanded and obtained troops and naval reinforcements from France.

Foreign office officials said they were unable to confirm or deny these reports. Previously the political commentator Pertinax had published reports that seasoned Italian troops had replaced native levies in that part of Ethiopia bordering on French Somaliland.

SHOW DUCE POWER

Fears for Djibouti were reported to have inspired a plan to show Premier Mussolini what formidable forces France can muster in Tunisia, bordering on his own Libya.

Premier Daladier's inspection trip to Tunisia, French protectorate, next month is to be made the occasion for an impressive display of France's fast motorized forces there, informed persons said.

Direct messages from Djibouti said strict measures to maintain order had been taken in the Red Sea port. Travelers said Italian residents of Djibouti had attempted demonstrations and that counter-demonstrations by natives to declare loyalty to French rule had followed.

From Cairo came reports that the Egyptian government was informed that important Italian troop movements had been reported from the southern part of Libya and particularly in the region of the Doufra Uwfinat oasis, on the Libyan-Egyptian frontier.

TROOPS ON MOVE

Dispatches published by the Leftist newspaper Ce Soir said the Italians in Ethiopia were moving toward French Somaliland and that 500 Fascist troops had taken up posts where they were alleged to be in French territory.

These dispatches said Italian loudspeakers installed along the French-owned railway from Addis Ababa, capital of Ethiopia, to Djibouti announced several times daily that the "taking of Djibouti is only a question of time" and that "the French will be thrown back into the sea."

Nazis Urge 'Crow' Cars For Jews

BERLIN, Dec. 27 (AP) — "Jim Crow" cars for the segregation of travelling Jews were demanded today by Das Schwarze Korps, organ of Adolf Hitler's elite guard, which pointed to the example of southern sections of the United States where Negroes are thus segregated.

"If the state railways, because of well-considered financial grounds, cannot decide to forbid Jews completely the use of railroad sleepers, then at least they should assign Jews special sections," the weekly publication said.

Reservations were recommended two days in advance so rail officials would know how much space to assign.

In ordinary cars, it said, special compartments should be labelled for Jews only "just as travellers with dogs may use only those sections assigned them . . . by that we do not mean to say anything against gentlemen with dogs."

Jews Thank Japan For Manchoukuo Haven

PEIPING, Dec. 27 (AP)—Dispatches from official Japanese sources in Harbin, Manchoukuo, reported a conference of Jewish residents yesterday expressed gratitude to Japan and Manchoukuo for opening the latter as a haven for world Jewry.

(Although no official announcement of such action by Manchoukuo has been made, it has been reported unofficially that the Japanese-dominated state would admit Jewish refugees.)

Franco Claims New Gains

ZARAGOZA, Spain, Dec. 27 (AP)—The insurgent command declared today that its thrust into Catalonia scored new gains both north and south of Lerida, from where the drive is headed toward Barcelona, the governmental capital, and the sea.

Insurgent headquarters asserted that more than 2500 prisoners were taken yesterday.

PARIS, Dec. 27 (INS)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco has called up his 1927 class of insurgent troops, indicating his Catalonian drive has proved the need for strong reinforcements, it was reported here from Burgos today.

Government May Shift From Barcelona

HENDAYE, France (at Spanish Frontier), Dec. 27 (AP)—The Spanish government was reported in advices reaching the border today to be considering transfer of its capital from Barcelona to the south to escape the threat of the insurgent general offensive into Catalonia.

Italian Press Turns New Blast on France

ROME, Dec. 27 (AP)—Formal French notice that not an inch of France's territory in Africa or anywhere else would be ceded to Italy drew new attacks in the Fascist press.

Il Messaggero asserted France herself had upset Mediterranean equilibrium in the negotiation of a yet unratified treaty with Syria which, the paper said, gave France "notable advantages and privileges of a military character."

The treaty was designed to terminate France's Syrian mandate and establish Syria as an independent country. The French ambassador sent a note to the foreign office refusing Italy further colonial grants.

It was a reply to an Italian communication holding invalid the 1935 Italian-French agreement on positions in North America.

"The question of Mediterranean equilibrium with its undeniable aerial and naval aspects has enormously increased the importance to us of strengthening our security, for our work and for the national integrity of Italians living on land subject to France," Il Messaggero said.

Invisible Glass Newest Find

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Dec. 27 (AP)—A varnish which makes glass invisible and transparent as air was announced today by Dr. Katharine B. Blodgett, noted woman scientist.

Colorless and thinner than a wave length of light, the film offers industry a new wonderland in the use of glass. It can be used on all kinds of glass, and it does two things never before possible.

First, it abolishes all reflection of light, from any angle and from any degree of glare. Second, it enables glass to transmit more than 99 per cent of the light. The best untreated glass passes only 92 per cent.

The lost 8 per cent is equivalent to a dim haze, which has been unnoticed because human eyes have not previously had a chance to make comparisons.

FORMULA SECRET

The discovery is an amazing example of search for scientific truth with no conceivable practical value, being converted into something of great artistic and commercial possibilities.

Dr. Blodgett, of the General Electric Company's research laboratories, made this conversion. The discovery is not ready for commercial use and the chemical formula of the magic fluid has not been publicized.

The seemingly impractical new fact of science was discovered by Dr. Irving Langmuir, General Electric's Nobel Prize winner in chemistry, that oily substances will on water in films the thickness of only a single molecule.

IT BENDS LIGHT

This fact was used by Dr. Blodgett to lay on glass probably the thinnest film ever made by man. When glass is dipped in one of Dr. Langmuir's single-molecule layers, the film transfers to the surface of the solid.

By dipping 44 times, Dr. Blodgett gets a film about four-millionths of an inch thick. This is about one-quarter of a wave length of light. Light bends slightly as it passes into the film. When it tries to reflect from the glass, the reflected wave runs into a peculiar case of the wave motion of light.

A quarter wave length of incoming light meets a quarter wave of reflecting light in such a position that the "trough" of one wave meets the "crest" of the other. In wave motion that means the end of the wave. This cancels the reflected light, and all the light that would have been reflected goes on through the glass.

The glass has to be filmed on both sides. An ordinary pane seems to disappear, except for a faint trace of its edges. The edge visibility is due to the fact that the glass itself absorbes a fraction of 1 per cent of the light.

INVISIBLE GLASS

In the laboratory, glass over dials, pictures, miniature show cases and miniature windows cannot be seen at all, except as a speck of dust may reveal its position. It is said that eye-glasses can be freed from all annoying reflection. Cameras, which lose 8 per cent of the light for each lens, will, depending on the number of lenses, transmit from 8 to 35 per cent more light to the negative. In some periscopes the light will be increased 75 per cent.

Telescopes, using numerous lenses and prisms, will give a much clearer view of the depths of space.

Finds His Wife Dead in Garage

Mrs. Mabel C. Higbee, 51, wife of Chester W. Higbee, New England agent for a New York cosmetics firm, was found asphyxiated in the garage of the Higbee home in Hawthorne street, Malden, today.

Her body was found by her husband. Malden Hospital officials stated that death was due to carbon monoxide.

Mrs. Higbee was the former Mabel Clark, Medfield society girl and daughter of the late Charles A. Clark, once known as a mining king.

WPA Worker Starts New Cape Row Over Pilgrims

It's on again — that perennial battle between Provincetown and Plymouth over the landing place of the Pilgrims.

The latest outbreak of hostilities was caused by a WPA worker, no less, who completed a research project with the calm announcement that there was no proof anybody from the Mayflower had set foot on the tip of Cape Cod.

Today the howls of protest from Provincetown resounded across the bay like the approaching roar of a sou-easter.

"That WPA historian must have been leaning on his shovel!" exclaimed Selectman Frank H. Barnett.

Once again loyal Provincetowners looked up books and records, particularly Governor William Bradford's famed "History of the Plymouth Plantation," with its mention of the Mayflower's arrival in "Cape Cod harbor" on November 11, 1620.

This account of the wanderings of the Pilgrim band indicates the voyagers found shelter near the end of the Cape, probably in the vicinity of Provincetown, and drew up their compact before going on to Plymouth.

But Plymouth folk possess their treasured Rock and a museum full of convincing relics. Peregrine White's cradle, ancient muskets, spinning wheels and all.

So today, diggers under the direction of Ralph S. Carpenter of Provincetown and Mrs. Gertrude DeWager, president of the town's Research Club, started turning over sods in a vacant lot believed to contain graves and memorial tablets of Dorothy Bradford and four men.

Tear Gas Foils Safe Robbers

Cracksmen who attempted to open a safe in the offices of the A. M. Eaton Paper Company, Albany street, South End, were routed by a tear gas bomb attached secretly to the combination of the safe.

The attempted break was discovered by employes when they opened the office for business today. Indications were the burglars fled when the tear gas was released.

Another burglary over the week-end occurred in the Smith McChance book store, Ashburton place, Beacon Hill. The burglars got 20 cents.

Trace Coster's $18,000,000 in Missing Assets

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—Assistant State Attorney-General Ambrose V. McCall indicated today that Girard & Co., the drug concern operated by the late F. Donald Coster-Musica before he got control of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., had only 25 customers.

McCall suggested this while questioning John H. McGloon, of Fairfield, Ct., vice-president in charge of accounting for McKesson & Robbins, in the state's investigation of the concern's financial affairs.

Federal and New York county authorities also are investigating the corporation's affairs as a result of disclosures that about $18,000,000 in crude drug assets were missing or never existed.

Before he joined the giant drug corporation, McGloon said, he was an accountant with Price, Waterhouse and Company, the firm which handled McKesson and Robbins' auditing. He met Coster-Musica in 1926.

McCall expressed concern over the methods of the audit of Girard and Company, asserting that the "accounts receivable" represented more than one-third of the firm's $650,000 assets. McGloon conceded the sum was "exceedingly large."

At the federal building it was announced that a special grand jury would be impanelled next Tuesday to take over the Coster investigation.

Katherine Sykora, who was secretary to Robert Dietrich-Musica, youngest of the brothers, was questioned today by Gregory F. Noonan, acting U. S. attorney.

Final Tribute Paid H. D. Burrill

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 27 (INS)—Men and women in all walks of life paid tribute today to Harvey D. Burrill, president and editor of the Syracuse Journal-American, who died Saturday.

St. Paul's Episcopal Church, across the street from the Journal, with which Mr. Burrill had been connected for 53 years, was filled when the services were started by the Rev. Franklin Bennett, rector.

Ten department heads who had worked under Mr. Burrill for a great many years were bearers.

Messages of condolence were received from all over the United States.

They came from President Roosevelt, William Randolph Hearst, Governor Herbert H. Lehman, former Governor Alfred E. Smith, and from scores of others.

The entire city mourned the death of the active and vigorous editor and at noon, the city hall bell tolled 70 times, a knell for each year of his life.

Thomas G. White, general manager of Hearst Enterprises, represented the Hearst organization at the funeral.

Dog Brings Woman To Rescue Son, 3

ROCKINGHAM, N. C., Dec. 27 (AP)—A pet terrier owned by the M. L. Tuckers can have anything he wants.

When the dog, highly excited, began tugging at her clothing, Mrs. Tucker followed him to a nearby pond. She found her three-year-old son clinging to a small bush in neck-deep water.

The child was rescued, treated for exposure.

G. O. P. to Shun Coalition Bloc In New Congress

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 — The post-election hope of anti-New Dealers for a working coalition in the next congress to battle the administration appeared foredoomed today.

The almost uniform attitude of returning members of both houses is that opposition lines will form as the issues are raised but that any attempt to effect a formal coalition will fail signally.

Although a few conservative Democrats have privately expressed a willingness to "go along" should there be an effort to form an anti-administration bloc, Republican leaders in both houses have quietly passed out the word that they are opposed to an organized opposition that transends party lines.

CONSERVATIVES' BALANCE

Most of the conservative Democrats hold a like opinion, but they are convinced that because of Republican gains, particularly in the House, they (the conservative Democrats) now possess the balance of power.

They point out that with the G. O. P. holding 170 seats in the lower branch, a combine of 48 conservative Democrats with the Republicans gives the anti-administration forces a clean majority on any fundamental question—218.

Representative Eugene Cox (D.) of Georgia, who led many of the fights against the New Deal in the 75th Congress, sums up the attitude of the conservative wing with these words:

PLAN CO-OPERATION

"As I understand those on the Democratic side who are classed as conservatives, none is coming back with a chip on his shoulder. None intends to perform as an obstructionist.

"The sentiment appears to be to co-operate as long as it does not mean a sacrifice of fundamental principles."

A similar attitude appears to exist in the Senate where the new lineup will be 69 Democrats, 23 Republicans, two Farmer-Laborites, one Progressive and one Independent-Republican.

Hopkins Plans Drive to Give Millions Jobs

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Hopkins, it was learned today, is considering a nationwide drive to put millions of unemployed men and women back to work in private industry.

The man who formerly directed the government's vast work relief program has discussed the possibilities of such a campaign with business leaders here and in New York.

The drive, according to reports in both business and government circles, would be carried on by the Commerce Department in conjunction with the business advisory council and probably other business organizations.

MERIT SEEN IN PLAN

Reaching into every city and town, it would be aimed at getting employers to cooperate in giving productive private work to as many as possible of the nation's more than 10,000,000 jobless.

Some well-informed persons said business leaders who had studied the plan professed to see in it considerable merit as a means of directly attacking the unemployment problem.

Methods for conducting the campaign are said to have been developed into a fairly definite program so that it could start within a few weeks and be well underway by spring. It thus could take advantage of whatever impetus commerce and industry receive from the usual spring improvement in business conditions.

TO RELY ON COUNCIL

If Hopkins decides to put the system into operation, he is expected to rely heavily on the business advisory council. This was organized by his predecessor, Daniel C. Roper, to give executives in finance, industry and commerce a voice in federal policies relating to business.

While Hopkins was going ahead with plans for the commerce department, it was becoming increasingly evident that the work relief system would be one of the first subjects of Congressional debate.

Trade Balance Up Over Billion

Crazy Rats Aid in Study Of Human Mills

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 27 — Crazy rats are giving scientists the next clue to solving the problem of nervous breakdowns and other mental disorders in human beings.

The American Association for the Advancement of Science, which opened its annual meeting here today, will hold a special symposium on mental disease and mental hygiene. At least 100 specialists in the subject will present reports of their research.

However, it was indicated today in the behavior of the crazy rats that Professor Norman R. F. Maier of the University of Michigan, who taught and coaxed them to do [illegible] may shed more light on the problem of human mental ills than many of the experiments made on human beings.

JUST LIKE HUMANS

Professor Maier said he would not go so far as to say the rats ordinarily had nervous breakdowns but their reactions to pressure were closely similar to those of human beings. Some of the rats acted like children with temper [illegible] were they did not find the [illegible] had been taught to expect.

Movie Stars, Read it, Weep!

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 27 (AP)—In 1939, if an astrologer's predictions are right, Tyrone Power will marry and Joan Crowford will fall in love . . .

A little girl named Patsy Lee Parsons will rival Shirley Temple with an appealing performance, perhaps in "Come With the Wind."

Robert Taylor will remain a bachelor.

Jeanette MacDonald will overcome an unfortunate premonition on her marriage to Gene Raymond.

Gracie Fields, knock-about English comedienne, will score a hit with the American public.

Difficult shoals loom up and must be avoided by the marital barks of Errol Flynn and Lili Damita, John Barrymore and Elaine Barrie, Alice Faye and Tony Martin, and Jon Hall and Frances Langford.

Thus the course of movieland is projected by Norwell, a slender, dark haired young astrologer, who annually digs down into a bag of reduced signs for hints of what each new year portends for human stars.

Last December, he recalls, he predicted Bette Davis' matrimonial rift, Mae West's decision to turn producer, and further legal difficulties for W. C. Fields. He rang the bell on those.

Looking into the future, Norwell says he sees Shirley Temple retaining her standing as No. 1 box office star in 1939 and continuing to be prominent on the screen as an adult in later years.

Among the screen's newer faces, Norwell predicts success for Whitney Bourne, Penny Singleton, Vincent Price, Joy Hodges, James Lydon, John Garfield and June Wilkins.

As for Joan Crawford, who's estranged from husband, Francho Tone, "she will fall in love in 1939 and marriage is shown for her, again by 1940. It should prove a happy one."

Connors III, Goes to Parley

Chairman Charles F. Connors of the Massachusetts Racing Commission announced today that he would attend the meeting of the commission called for late this afternoon.

"Chairman Connors has been notified to be present in Boston with a sworn oath.

"I have made arrangements to preside at today's meeting of the racing commission," said Chairman Connors.

"I have not yet seen Governor-elect Saltonstall's letter asking that action be deferred on racing dates until he takes office. The letter is at the office of the racing commission."

The petitions for Suffolk Downs dates applications to be set for Thursday when the Wonpoan meetings are down to be held on Friday.

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND

MOST OF THE NEW MINK in Boston turned out for the Noel Coward show, "Set to Music", starring Bee Lillie, at the opening last night at the Shubert . . .

Being tied down by premiers of theaters controlled by the Messrs. Shubert your reporter relied on the advices of his fellow newspaper people in reaching a decision as to the merits of an important show. Mink or no mink . . . Around the nightclubs, as of midnight, the Coward show was a matter of moment. One met the average number of amateur George Jean Nathans, and one met two these were liked it . . .

Once Over Lightly:

In the collapse of one of those insurance companies, snitch Hobs itself against the fair escutcheon of a potent political figure. The stand-off man of the company has rated himself as the p. p. fa "see me boy." Many have believed it . . . The smash was in the cards and the mayor of a neighboring city isn't too happy either . . .

Among the guests at the wedding reception at the Copley Square Hotel for Mr. and Mrs. Harry K. Williams was all by itself as the number of entertainers. Joe Rollin stayed the show and because Mrs. Williams formerly Nella Rosenberg of Roxbury was a pupil of Lou Irving, Jack Bussey the Boston member of the international Rhythm Dancers, scripts dances and chatter, couldn't himself . . .

Retiring Chief Larkin, Nahant, To Be Feted

John Roosevelt is expected to attend a testimonial banquet at Nahant tomorrow in honor of retiring Police Chief Thomas H. Larkin.

Other notables present will include State Commissioner of Public Safety Eugene McSweeney, Police Commissioner Joseph P. Timility, Metropolitan District Police Superintendent Edward M. Wilson and Harry Barker, U. S. secret service head in Boston.

After 42 years in the Nahant police department, Chief Larkin quits his post January 1, to be succeeded by Michael H. Healy.

Chief Larkin and John Roosevelt became friends at the time John's engagement and marriage to Anne Lindsay Clark of Nahant focused the spotlight of national publicity on that town.

THE FORGOTTEN NATION

The Editor Says:—America is being continually importuned nowadays to "save democracy" in some foreign land where democracy never existed.

These importunities anticipate war, under the slogan of "collective security."

J. B. Matthews for years a "fellow traveler" of the Stalinists, now informs us:

"I believe that work, study, for America lacks in any way aside [illegible] in other parts of the world [illegible] of conviction to be found in this generation, there is plenty of work for every American AT HOME."

It is a message which we repeat throughout the New Year, for as a result of our own experience during the last World War, we do well to heed and obey it.

EVERYBODY KNOWS that scattered among the pages of this newspaper is news about Germany that the Germans don't know; there is news about Russia that the Russians don't know; news about Italy that the Italians don't know.

In the pages of this paper there is news from all over the world about people who don't know what is going on in their own countries. They are not permitted to know.

BUT YOU KNOW.

In fact, there is scarcely a nation on earth today whose people know as much about their own affairs as Americans know about them, even though we are thousands of miles removed from these nations.

Does this mean we are prying into other peoples' affairs?

Of course not. It is the purpose of newspapers to report news.

What it does mean is that we are one of the few nations on earth that still has a free press.

WE REALLY DON'T KNOW HOW LUCKY WE ARE.

IN RUSSIA, the newspapers print only what Stalin wants them to print.

In Germany, the people are permitted to read nothing that Hitler does not want them to read. In Italy, the newspapers carry only what Mussolini says they may carry.

In Greece, the press is dictated to by the government. In Japan, the press is inspired by the government. In Government Spain, the newspapers print one side of a story—if it is printed at all—and in Insurgent Spain they print the other side—if it is printed at all.

Why even in some of the European so-called democracies there is censorship, if not by force, then by pressure.

WE REALLY DON'T KNOW HOW LUCKY WE ARE.

IN THIS COUNTRY, the President can't say a word nor make a move that is not reported in the newspapers.

Next day, if we don't like what he says or does, we criticize it. If we do like it, we praise it. But praise or criticism, we measure it according to our own private standards, not the government's.

If we agree with the majority party, we find fault with the minority party. But what is more important, if we DISagree with the majority party, we find fault with it, and only fools challenge our right.

Thank God there are not enough fools in America to deny us the right.

Let our government engage in secret diplomacy and some reporter will uncover it. Some newspaper will print it—unless to reveal it is against the public interest in time of national peril.

So much more could be written on this subject, but what could be written so important as the fact that you are reading this?

Remember, please, there is scarcely a country left in all the world where a newspaper would dare to print a piece like this.

WE REALLY DON'T KNOW HOW LUCKY WE ARE.

The Human Side of the News

Kings Seldom Lose Hopes

By EDWIN C. HILL

Copyright, 1938, King Features Synd., Inc.

THE RISE of dictatorships has complicated the affairs of European pretenders to kingship considerably, but it hasn't by any means put them out of business.

Democracy has found no substitute for the symbolic and the romantic as human incentives to loyalty. Even in its pale afterglow the light that beats around a throne never wholly fades.

THE LATEST who would risk the headache that goes with a crown is young Grand Duke Vladimir Cyrilovitch, who leaves school at Oxford to take up his late father's job of pretender to the throne of Russia.

He first would be king of the 50,000,000 Ukranians, carving out for them a separate state which would include parts of Russia, Poland, Carpathia, Bessrabia and Lithuania. Then he would overwhelm Soviet Russia and restore the thrones, powers and dominions of the czars.

Vladimir and who else? Adolf Hitler, to be explicit. European [illegible] this quite definitely, in spite of the insistence of White Russians and Ukranians around the world that Vladimir is a self-starter and can take and hold Russia with his own patriots and no outside assistance.

However, it has been definitely reported that the young grand duke has been in a powwow with the Nazi chiefs.

IF ONE should be so unkind as to ascribe any selfish motives to Herr Hitler, it will be recalled that Der Fuehrer has put in a prior claim to the Ukraine, in his book, "Mein Kampf," and that many times since he has made it clear that it is the apple of his eye.

Furthermore, it is to be noted that he is now busy clearing a path to that fat granary through Memel and other approaches.

Vladimir, a personable youth, is the son of Grand Duke Cyril, cousin of Czar Nicholas II, who died in Paris early last October.

He is a rallying point for White Russians all over the world, said to enjoy a much stronger following than his late father and his ascendancy, even as a pretender, has imperiled czarist emigres everywhere.

Some of them welcome the cooperation of Nazi Germany and hail Adolf Hitler as their deliverer. Few are sure that he is entirely disinterested in restoring Russia to its rightful rulers.

The Brighter Side

Would Soothe Dramatic Editors' Conscience

By DAMON RUNYON

Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International copyright and all other rights reserved.

WHAT WE LOVE about the New York dramatic critics is that they are men of conscience. We used to think on reading some of their compositions on the drama that their calling tended to harden their hearts and perhaps their arteries and make them cruel and unrelenting, but we now know better.

When we see a dramatic critic striding out on a bad play, his hands closing and unclosing, his face sternly set, and his eyes blazing, we know that he is plenty hot and that he is going to his office and knock the ears off that unfortunate piece of dramatic stuff.

However, we also know that after he gets that blast off his chest and also off his typewriter and goes home and to bed that his conscience is going to trouble him.

BUT WHEN HE AWAKES the next day at noon (dramatic critics are noon sleepers) and reads in print what he wrote in his moment of rage, we know that his conscience is going to trouble him even more. It will commence whispering in his ear, why, say, old Elmer, or old Phil, or old Max (we are using hypothetical playwriting names) is not such a bad fellow after all, and you have probably hurt his feelings.

So the dramatic critic, being a man of conscience, sits down and writes a sort of follow-up on his mayhem and says that on second thought there was some merit to the play, and maybe it might interest the cash customers, at that. But his conscience keeps prodding him.

By Sunday the dramatic critic's conscience has him writing that he can see now that the playwright had a big message to convey and that what he, the critic, at first thought was just fumbling writing and all-fired bad acting may have been the troubled soul of the playwright groping for expression, and that the cash customers should not overlook the play. The only trouble with this atonement in most cases is that it is like Executioner Elliot being sorry after he has thrown the switch.

We think where playwrights make a mistake is in not hanging out in theater lobbies between the acts of their opuses and mailing the dramatic critic. To explain, suppose now a playwright on his opening night got hold of the critics one after the other and said to each like this:

"Well, old pal, it's nice to see you. It's always nice to see an old pal like you. You're doing swell work, old pal. I hear a lot of talk about it. Everybody says it's the best work in town, old pal. I guess you've heard I'm not going so good. My wife is in the hospital and I'm broke and my children have nothing to eat.

"I worked two years on this play, old pal and sweated blood over it and if it flops I'm going to take to the river. Well, I'm sure glad to see you, old pal. You're one fellow I've always said had a heart. Goodnight and God bless you, old pal."

WE ARE SURE that an expression along this line to the dramatic critics individually would arouse their conscience at once and save them the post-mortem disquiet of the foregone thing.

Thus everybody would be much happier, though of course the critics who work for the morning papers would suffer some inconvenience. They would be deprived of that public reprinting in the Sunday drama section which serves to take up so much slack space.

IT MAY SOUND like a pun, but Bostonians are getting to take Noel Coward's first name literally, because several of his shows have opened here on Christmas night to provide theater goers with gay and sophisticated entertainment for the holiday evening . . .

His latest revue, "Set to Music," starring vivacious Beatrice Lillie, had its world premiere at the Shubert last evening . . . and as usual at Coward's openings the audience was packed with social and stage celebrities . . . Tickets were so hard to get that only those lucky enough to find that Santa had tucked a pair in their Christmas stocking, or the forehanded who had ordered theirs weeks ago, were able to attend . . .

Many Striking Costumes

ELEO SEARS shared her "four in the front row" with Ora Munson a musical comedy singer and dancer, one of the Storey boys and another escort . . . After the show they dashed backstage to greet Mr. Coward and Miss Lillie . . . Nancy Cochrane, who is studying musical comedy in New York, sat in the middle of the front row, scribbling copious notes on various new angles of stage technique . . . She was all by herself for Grandmother Wessel Lowy and little Jean Cochrane were a few rows back . . .

The evening brought on some striking costumes . . . Lucy Pope's little white hat which consisted of a white bird with spreading wings, perched on her blonde permed bangs and crowds were centered on the shoulder of her black down . . . She was in a party with her brother Ralph, winner of the title of handsomest man on the North Shore last summer and Dorothy Wightman . . . Isabel O'Day was radiant in a gleaming white satin with ice snowy white fur coat and muff which she found under the Christmas tree . . . Her mother wore huge purple orchids on her ermine coat . . . The Paul Clarks had a family party and Mrs. Robert Brewer shared a box with her three daughters, Elsie, Susan and Barbara, with the latter's hubby Charles R. L. Sturgis . . . Embroidered black velvet patterns and matching evening bag which added a festive touch to Jean Clark's evening ensemble, looked as though they had been one of the welcome surprises in her Christmas stocking . . .

Anne Blake, who is home from college for the holidays, had a warm reception from many friends during intermission . . . Her mother, Mrs. J. A. Lowell Blake, was with her and among their North Shore summer neighbors in the throng were Dottie Preston, Mr. and Mrs. Farley Wheelwright, Mrs. Robert Knowles, Mrs. Dudley Pickman and Mrs. A. L. West Movius . . .

The Countess Palffy wore her coq feather jacket over a fitted black net embroidered with gold . . . Mrs. William B. Pratt, a gray net with amethyst velvet jacket . . . Still others present were Mr. and Mrs. George Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ginn, Mrs. John Wasson, wife of the producer, the Daniel deMenocals, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. P. Kennard and the Edward Carpenters . . .

PLAY-BY-PLAY IN THE STOCK MARKET

The stock market slipped into low gear today after a lively, higher opening. As dealings quieted gains by rails and aviations largely offset losses by motors and steels.

Industrial shares as measured by the averages were pounding on the barrier erected by old rally highs. They must be overcome if we are to have a real intermediate upturn signal. The prospects are more pleasing than otherwise because of the prevalence of optimism on such key industries as steel and motors.

Rails have already shown their willingness to embark on new upside adventures and it is just possible that they will pull industrials along with them, thus reversing the usual order of events.

Outside of the markets the most important thing to watch for is reports on holiday trade and indications of year-end inventory positions. If the first were good then more liberal spring buying policies are likely. If the second reveals low figures then producers will have no fear of stepping up schedules.

Railroads Hold National Attention

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

As the final lap of a hectic market and trade year begins, all eyes are focused on the industry which has made headlines more consistently than any other. It is transportation with the emphasis on railroads.

Wages, rates loans for the needy and now finally a recommendation for a national transportation policy have held national attention.

It has reached a point where the course of coming financial affairs and the extension permanent revival without a healthy railroad system. Apparently seems the impression

The recommendations have been made they are sound simply because they are directed toward relief of an indispensable public

The program now calls for consideration and, if the aroused interest is a fair criterion, sharply directed in rail

The next year is going to many developments

And they should mark the beginning of a new era for transportation.

Con. Edison Elects Woman Trustee

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (INS)—Two new trustees of the Consolidated Edison Company of New York were elected today, one of them the first woman ever to serve on the board of directors of a major utility company in this country.

She is Mrs. Kenneth B. Norton of Bronxville, previously a director of the Westchester Lighting Company, a subsidiary of Consolidated Edison.

Also elected was Neal Dow Becker, president of the Intertype Corporation of Brooklyn. They succeed the resigned Lewis Gewtry and Louis M. Greer.

Further Trade Rise Forecast

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (INS)—Trade probably will continue its upward trend in the first part of the new year, the magazine Banking, official publication of the American Bankers Association, said today.

The outlook, however, depends to a large extent on the ability of business and government getting together and on the course of politics the magazine added.

Courtesy Now Business Rule

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
International News Service Economic Commentator

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (INS)—Human courtesy helps to take the "soul-less" curse off corporate relationships.

Executive manners, especially in dealings with stockholders, have been noticeably improving, especially among the minority of leaders who have been giving conscious attention to this subject.

The president of one corporation personally writes and thanks every ... who shows confidence in the management by filling out a proxy. A capital idea, which others should emulate!

Numerous progressive chief executives write welcoming letters to new stockholders. One company of fers a free sample of foodstuffs which the company makes to all new stockholders who take the to make a request.

Many companies write letters of regret to those who sell out and depart from the stockholders' roll. One advanced executive goes a step further, and assumes that some stockholders may be selling out solely because they need the funds for personal reasons, feeling no dissatisfaction with the company.

LETTERS LESS LEGALISTIC

Accordingly he asks liquidating stockholders whether they would like to remain on the company's mailing list for corporate information.

Corporate manners improve as business letters and printed matter become less formal, less legalistic.

When sales minded business men follow their own inclinations, and shed from their expressions the cumbersome jargon of the legalist ... and accountant persons they are likely to add to their capacity to make friends.

On the other hand some of the financial institutions, including the insurance companies are still restrained by the legalistic technicians.

Accordingly, even the mutual life insurance companies, which are really akin to consumers cooperatives, tend to hide from their policy holders the warmth and human interest which are inherent in their operations.

Communications with policy holders are needlessly brusque.

The chief contact with a policy holders is the periodical demand for premiums.

Such notices should be friendship building, and could be readily made an ivy an improvement in ... Thus could be supplied as reminders intended to help the policy holder achieve his own program by making the contractual deposits punctually.

"THANK YOU" MESSAGES

Then the austere receipt notices should be turned into pleasant "thank you" messages. Insurance executives could make friends readily by incorporating in the "thank you" message at the end of each policy year, a statement of how the policy holder is progressing toward his chosen goal of financial independence, stating the increase achieved in cash and loan values.

After a policy has been bought companies should send to the new policy holder, a simple booklet which will explain in A B C form, precisely what the policy will do ... in his or her family.

A prospect well sold ... safeguarded against ... temptation to ... the first ... of ... policy.

Stock Market Averages Show Gain for Week

By DR. LEWIS HANEY

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 The general impression which I get from ... market's act on last week ... that ... to stand ... as ... the usual year end ... having their way.

But there ... a slight upward current caused by the fact that those who have bought stocks are a little more confident and purposeful than those who have sold.

Certainly the averages gained a little during the week managing to close about half a point higher than the week before. And once more, I have to point out that negatively this is a good performance.

At one time during the week things looked worse. But after declining in the first three days, the averages turned up on Thursday, and by Saturday had regained all the ground lost, and more.

Group movements were noticeable. The profit taking hit the air ... while the ... stocks took on new life. A good many utility and electric appliance ... were rather weak while ... and metals did fairly well. This may well have something to do with the final year-end shifting of positions, and the completion of "tax selling" operation.

But when all is said, such signs of general tendency as there were, indicated an upward inclination. It still seems to me that the next considerable move is likely to be toward higher levels.

For one thing, there is discernable in the charts, and upward drift. The most definite symptom of this is to be seen in the way the market, at its low point Wednesday, failed to break through; and then on Thursday came back to close within a sort of rising path which has been forming. The decline was checked considerably above the preceding lows.

This symptom is supported by the fact that the close on Saturday was the highest closing figure since the peak reached in mid November. The earlier figures are not exceeding much, but the fact stated is significant of an underlying buoyancy.

Austen Lake:

Boston Hockey Fans In Rowdy Renaissance

I THINK ALL AND SUNDRY WHO HAVE watched the Bruins in recent home games will agree that professional hockey is the one remaining sport in which the patrons like to take personal part in the action. The paying-guests at the Boston Garden are given full discretionary privilege to poke the athletes as they scud past the barriers, or the right to grab their shirttails or say uncouth remarks, provided, of course, the patrons accept the hazard of getting poked promptly back.

AUSTEN LAKE

There was, for example, that Christmas night incident when a Boston fan grabbed Murray Patrick's hockey and hung on until a constable pried him loose. And the night before that when a lady customer belted the Chicago Blackhawks with her hand-satchel as they scooted past. And the earlier evening when a male client, better for his drams, heaved both his goloshes from the top balcony.

Toronto a Close Second

YOU MAY RECALL THAT ONE OF THESE fans pitched a wild punch which caught Shore on the cheekbone. "How awkward of me," the fan hastened to apologize, "I regret my inadvertence in landing you a wallop intended for wot's'isname." But Shore affably assured the fan that 'twernt nawthin', considering the untabulated total of jolts, biffs and rips he had received during his long career. "Consider that sock on the house," Eddie offered generously.

Wrestlers Never Socked a Client

IT IS CONSIDERED VERY HEALTHFUL for the hockey customers to take part in the rink ructions because there is little left of the co-operative games in which our citizens, of both sexes, can expel their internal prisons by biffing somebody for something which seems very vital at the instant but the reason for which they forget immediately after.

BUT IT IS BY NO MEANS UNUSUAL for a hockey player, distracted in the midst of his duties, to spank a customer on the nose. A year or so ago Lynn Patrick of the Rangers whooed down in midflight and belted a Bostonian for something done, said, or implied. And before that Lionel Conacher of the Maple Leafs smacked somebody while passing through the players' tunnel. This is wholly within the jurisdiction of the hockey athletes and a matter dictated by individual emotion. For the League provides no penalty, or at least inflicts none, on the general assumption that these are private fights, mutually provoked, and therefore not subject to outside interference.

By JACK CONWAY

GOV.-ELECT SALTONSTALL'S request to the Racing Commission that no action be taken on the assignment of racing dates until after he takes office should cause all parties interested in the turf sport to avoid making hasty and maybe unwise decisions.

MR. BOSTON

The word [illegible] to get racing dates as soon as possible after Governor Charles F. Hurley leaves office is unnecessary and if carried to a conclusion might prove harmful.

Under the State law there can be 90 days of racing in Massachusetts. Suffolk Downs, situated in a heavily populated area, naturally is entitled to more consideration in the allotment of racing dates than Westport or Great Barrington.

Great Barrington, according to Eddie Mack is only asking for 30 days of racing, while Westport, which has not broken ground for its proposed racing plant, is asking for 60 days of racing.

The State will suffer a heavy financial loss if Suffolk Downs is not given the same consideration in the granting of racing dates that it received last year.

Under State supervision racing should be conducted in a way to [illegible] benefit all of the people and not any particular group that may possess some temporary political advantage. It has been found in those States where the politicians tampered with racing that the sport had a short life.

This year Massachusetts received a net revenue of more than $2,000,000 from racing. The sport has become big business, and it is the duty of Governor Charley F. Hurley and the members of the Racing Commission to treat it as such and not as a political plum tree.

[illegible] It likely that [illegible] make any statement [illegible] the mutuel racing situation here but probably [illegible] in the interest of the State treasury and [illegible] the State.

In view of this fact Saltonstall's statement racing people will wait until he takes office before giving serious consideration to the sport in this state. They realize that the incoming Governor and the public is not going to tolerate any last-minute action on race track licenses and assignment of dates.

Foxx Tops A. L. Hitters, Ben Chapman on Heels

"The first basemen shall be first" was the order of the day for American League artillery during the campaign of 1938, when plump-jowled, willowy-wristed Jimmy Foxx of the Boston Red Sox was the official batting leader of the circuit, with a grand average of .349 for 149 games, and lanky Hank Greenberg of the Detroit Tigers kept the fans wondering all summer long whether he would be able to surpass the Ruthian pace in the home run reading.

The long range Bengal wound up the season just two short of Babe Ruth's peak with 58 pokes parked out of the enclosure for a new record for himself and for a Detroit player. Greenberg rang up the old Detroit mark of 40 in 1937.

Although Foxx, who previously was batting champion of the loop in 1933 wound up eight homers behind Greenberg with all he had, nevertheless broke his own Boston record [illegible] his production of 41 made at the Hub in 1935.

The gent [illegible] Mary and former boy has [illegible] on set of more homers in a season [illegible] during his brilliant major league career. Besides reaching the big century mark in 1438, he [illegible] 58 for the round trip [illegible] while he was with Philadelphia.

PUNISHED BROWNS

Among Foxx's many big days in the summer of 1438 was a record performance in the second game of a double-header at St. Louis on September 30 when he slapped out a homer and a triple in the sixth inning to tie the American League record for extra base wallops in a single frame.

Paced by the mighty Foxx the Red Sox went up to the [illegible] age supporting the [illegible] records with [illegible] seventh.

Swift Ben Chapman of the Red Sox had a fine year with a batting average of .340 in 127 games which placed him third in the final standing. Charlie Gehringer of Detroit the 1937 batting leader with the high standard of .371, slumped to .306 in 132 games amid all the confusion at Detroit in 1938 consequent on Mickey Cochrane's decline and demise, while Luke Appling, Chicago White Sox shortstop who was the high man in 1936, and down to .309 in 1938, chiefly as the result of a broken ankle in spring training, which also held down his game total to 81.

Harlow Speaks at Coaches' Meeting

Little Reports On Rules

CHICAGO, Dec. 27 (AP)—Football coaches, enjoying an eight-month respite from scoreless ties and blocked punts, began swarming into Chicago today for the opening session of their annual convention.

Dick Harlow

The program unofficially opens tonight when the trustees of the National Football Coaches Association hold their annual dinner. Formal start of the convention is set for Wednesday morning.

The direction of the three-day gabfest is in the hands of Wisconsin's head coach, Hary Stuhldreher, president of the association. His successor will be chosen at the concluding session Friday.

Coaches freely forecast considerable talk about changes in the rules, but no recommendations for major alterations were expected when Chairman Lou Little of Columbia makes the rules committee's report.

Various technical phases of the game will be discussed by Fred Thomsen, Arkansas; Mal Elward, Purdue; Dick Harlow, Harvard; Ted Bank, Idaho, and Maurice (Clipper) Smith, Villanova.

Motion pictures will be shown of many big games of 1938 to aid in the discussions.

Starting Bowl Teams Named

Wade decided that he would use the same eleven that halted Pittsburgh's "dream backfield" to the tune of 7-0.

Bierman, Kerr Ban Scrimmages

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27 (AP)—Twenty-two Eastern all-stars, said their co-coaches today, may have to spend their last week of preparation for the Shrine East-West game here next Monday without benefit of scrimmage.

Coaches Bernie Bierman of Minnesota and Andy Kerr of Colgate issued a call for any moderately good team to show up at Berkeley, where the East is training. He does not dare scrimmage the stars among themselves.

Myer Pushes T. C. U. For Carnegie Test

FORT WORTH, Tex., Dec. 27 (INS)—Their toughest game of the schedule still faces Texas Christian's Horned Frogs, according to Coach Dutch Meyer today as he pushed the Sugar Bowl eleven through another stiff practice for their game with Carnegie Tech January 2.

"We figure Tech to have one of the hardest teams to outsmart in the entire country," Meyer said, "and there's no telling what they'll spring on us."

After his speech, the former pugilistic great will show motion pictures of his second fight with Tiger Jack Dempsey and the still talked about "long count."

Football will be well represented with John Walker and Sol Nechtem of B. U., Lou Montgomery of B. C., Mike Cohen and Clifton Hallman of Harvard, George Mawhinney and Joe Finklestein of Brown, Jack MacDonald, father of Harvard's Turbie, and Johnny Prior, assistant coach at Brookline High school.

McLarnin Training

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 27 (AP)—Jimmy McLarnin, the former welterweight boxing champion, isn't saying anything about reports he will make a comeback against Henry Armstrong next summer, but close friends claim "Baby Face" is doing a little training.

Prospects are bright for a comeback if the price is right—about $50,000.

Desmaried, Hurd Lose At Arena

Jackie Hurd, former New England 126 pound champion and Florant Desmaried of Manchester, N. h., were listed among the losers at the Irish-American diamond belt series at the Boston Arena last night.

Whether it was because boys wished to go home early or because they were in a harder hitting mood than usual, the fact remains that eight out of the first 11 contests ended in knockouts.

Eddie DeAngelis of Revere, 112 pound runner-up in the recent New England All-America series, started the pyrotechnics by belting out Joe Reposa of Fall River in the first round. Then to score one for Fall River's defeat, Joe Conroy, a teammate of Reposa's, came in to knock out Willie Laverture of Lawrence in a semifinal in the 118-pound class.

Final bouts results:

112—Joe Marquette, Revere, defeated Ed DeAngelis, Revere, 3 rounds.
118—Tony DeTomasso, East Boston, knocked Joe Conroy, Fall River, first round.
126—Ted Caparell, Boston, defeated Leo Dulmaine, Middleboro, 3 rounds.
135—Al Proietti, Leominster, defeated Al Doyle, Cambridge, 3 rounds.
147—James Raushan, South Boston, won by default over Bob Halligan, Wilmington.
160—Art Carmichal, Roxbury, kayoed John Ryone, Boston, first round.
165 (Novice)—John Smallwood, Boston, defeated Tony Martinelli, East Boston, 3 rounds.

DUDAS WINS

KOENIGSBERG, Germany, Dec. 27 (AP)—Steve Dudas, Edgewater, N. J., heavyweight, defeated Paul Wallner of Germany in a ten-round bout.

To Fight Nova

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—The New York Daily News says that Lou Nova, promising California heavyweight, has agreed to meet Jimmy Braddock, ex-world's heavyweight champion, in a ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden on March 31.

If Nova wins he will meet Max Baer outdoors next summer, according to the news. Braddock, who retired after beating Tommy Farr last January, has been in light training for two or three weeks.

Yanks to Lose Many Airing Home Games

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—Major league baseball clubs will get around a million dollars out of the air in 1939, but the fact remains all of the 16 teams which have decided to broadcast their games aren't completely sold on this blue-sky proposition.

Colonel Jacob Ruppert of the New York Yankees, for instance, is convinced that the probable $100,000 he will receive for permitting broadcasts is something of a reverse-English profit, like putting a quarter in one pocket and losing a half-dollar out of another, which does seem like a rather roundabout way of making money.

Colonel Ruppert figures that although most fans like to see what they are hearing, there are others who just like to hear what they're hearing, except when the home team is eight runs behind, going on nine.

FANS STAY HOME

Those fans who are content to just listen, particularly when they can save money, will stay home in numbers large enough to more than offset the added income from the radio sponsors, Colonel Ruppert estimates.

The Colonel's decision to permit broadcasting was brought about through a prolonged illness during which he came to realize just how much such entertainment means to invalids.

However, his argument that the radio and fat gate receipts don't mix has a rebuttal in his own Kansas City club of the American Association. On balmy summer nights you can stroll down a Kansas City street and keep in touch with the game without losing a ball or strike as one radio blends with another. In fact, the service station attendants have a standard greeting: "Blues in front 2 to 1 in the sixth. What can I do for you?"

Yet Kansas City is a booming baseball town, with major league attendance. Sunday home games and holiday games are not broadcast for reasons in line with the Colonel's views, but otherwise the absent fans know everything that is happening.

YANKS DEMANDS MET

It is reported that $50,000 is about the sum most major league clubs get for permitting broadcasts, but in some cases the sum probably is well above that figure.

The Yankees, for instance, probably will demand and get twice that much on the assumption that more fans will tune in to listen to Lou Gehrig or Joe DiMaggio hit a home run than will care to listen to some other team striking out.

Anyway, it would appear that Colonel Ruppert doesn't have to worry. His Yankees might be on the air, but they won't be in it, and they'd still draw fans when other clubs would have trouble drawing a good, deep breath.

Smythe on Warpath

Apparently, the 40-hour a week Wage and Hour law doesn't apply to Canadians . . . Just as soon as his left foot hit the platform at the Back Bay Station at 6:10 this morning, Connie Smythe leaped up on the soap box and began to spout . . . "The Leafs are shorthanded but they gave the Rangers a fine going over last night in New York," yelled Sir Connie. "And, you can take it from me that they won't pull their punches tonight against the Bruins" . . . The Toronto big-wig was running a fever over the 2 to 0 win that his Maple Leafs chalked up over Lester Patrick's Streamliners . . . But, it will be well for Sir Connie to bear in mind that Toronto is the only club in the N. H. L. that hasn't been held scoreless by Frankie Brimsek . . . The Davis Cup matches will be played at the Merion Cricket Club of Philadelphia next year . . . Which brings to mind that the University of Penn is loaded for its 1940 football season . . . A year from next fall, the Red and Blue is scheduled to take on Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Cornell, Army and Navy . . . Fran Lane, the former Exeter and Harvard athlete, who was hospitalized for two months, returned home for Christmas . . . Fran lost 40 pounds during his battle with pneumonia . . . The Toronto fans gave "Chuck" Conacher the Bronx cheer, when he high sticked his former teammates during Saturday's game between the Leafs and Detroit . . . Harry McGrath, the well known junior golfer, is playing goal for New Hampton Academy . . . Felix Garacciolo, Yale's midget guard, and Tony Cavalli, the Lafayette fullback, saw the Rangers beat the Rossmen . . . Lafayette has an informal hockey sextet, which has booked two games with Army and will also play Princeton and Penn State . . . Herbie Lewis is now playing center ice for the Red Wings, who have been riddled by injuries . . . Alex Motter, out for 10 days, is the latest Detroit casualty . . . Frankie Brimsek looked better losing to Rangers than he did in any of his shut-outs . . . Jack Daly, Jr., the former E. H. S. All-Scholastic tackle, is a defenseman on the freshman team at Williams . . . Gene Tunney will be the guest of honor tonight during the annual Father and Sons Night at the Brotherhood of the Temple Ohabei Shalom . . . Rumor has the skids being eased under Bill Stewart, manager of the Black Hawks . . . "Dorchester" Bill spoke his little piece after the "front office" had trade "Doc" Romnes for Bill Thoms.

Entries Soar for Silver Skates Derby

Look Alike Harry Frost and Gordie Pettinger, Bruins youngsters, who look as much like as Ike and Mike. Frost recently rejoined club after a sojourn at Bruins' farm in Hershey.

Practise Sessions Planned

Thanks to rare holiday generosity, New England's skating fans are well equipped with shining new blades for the Silver Skates Derby, annual speed and fancy skating fixture which is headed for Boston Garden on Sunday afternoon, January 22.

Word reaches this office that title bent men and women, boy and girl skaters are working up to competitive pitch on the ice surfaces wherever available.

Each day the arrival of entry blanks makes it more certain that the fourth annual Derby, conducted by the Boston American and Sunday Advertiser, will be bigger and better than ever.

In the very near future a schedule of practice dates will be announced for Boston Arena. These evenings the Arena will be given over to Silver Skates entrants, many of whom have asked us to procure such dates for them in order that they may tune up indoors and under similar conditions to the big Derby.

Among the latest entries are many starters of other years, fellows and girls who are taking another crack at the several championships and who return more than ever hopeful of victory.

ALL WELCOME

Among the blanks in today's mail was one from Armand DeGrandpre of East Jaffrey, New Hampshire. Others came from Robert Litvin, Jamaica Plain; Sol Litcofsky, Garden street, Boston, member of the Olympics; Carmelita Landry, old friend from Fitchburg; Buddy Grier, Rockport, and Antonio Conaruesso, East Boston.

There's to be room for everyone anxious to enter. There's no limit on how many we can handle, no limit either on ages.

Whether you're 10 or 80, it's all the same to the Derby directors. There are classes to take care of the age limits, so that all compete with others of the same general age and size.

The entry blank tells the story. It tells how there's no entry fee and no fixed rule on the quality of type skates employed.

Toronto Invades Garden Tonight

By BILL GRIMES

"Lester Patrick's Streamline Rangers might have tied your Bruins in knots here on Sunday night," declared Connie Symthe this morning as he was nibbling at his cornflakes at the University Club, "but, the Maple Leafs took them in stride last night in Madison Square Garden."

"It's been so long since we've had our entire personnel available that I've almost forgotten the names of some of the players, who haven't been in action for a month or so.

"On our first appearance here, we didn't have Gordie Drillon. He was out with a broken hand. And, in the interim, we traded Bill Thoms for "Doc" Romnes and bought "Bucko" McDonald from the Red Wings.

"All I know about the Bruins is what I read in the papers. You scribes have gone off the deep end over this kid Brimsek. Well, maybe for a change you're right. You know he broke into the N. H. L. against us at Toronto in the opening game of the season.

"We moved into a third place tie with Chicago by beating Rangers last night and I'm very confident that we'll be on even terms with the third place Americans when we climb aboard our train after we've clashed with the Bruins tonight at the Garden.

"Oh, yes, I've been reading about the Leafs being the only club that Brimsek hasn't shut out but Ross can't scare us with that line of ballyhoo. Possibly Ross hasn't caught up on his reading. Maybe, he doesn't realize that on Saturday nigh "Turk" Broda shut out Detroit and came up with his second scoreless game in a row last night in New York.

"We've been playing wide open hockey all season and we intend to carry the play to the Bruins tonight from the opening face off. If the other teams in the league elect to put on nothing but one—and on rare occasions two-man rushes, that's their business. We play just one type of hockey, 100 per cent offensive. If our opponents can out-score us that's all right with me for I realize that in the long run we'll beat all of them at that style of play.

"I'm sorry that Cowley and Schmidt are on the injured list but that just about evens up matters for Marker and Bull are back in Toronto.

After they were beaten by Rangers, Art Ross ordered the Bruins to rest up yesterday for the Maple Leafs. The Rossmen are scheduled to play Amerks and Rangers in New York on Thursday and Saturday nights, respectively, and are listed to meet the Detroit Redwings Sunday at the Garden.

The Maple Leafs may have read about Frankie Brimsek but they are probably under the impression that the stories written about the Eveleth boy have been slightly exaggerated. Along about 10:20, they may be in possession of some real first hand information as to Brismek's prowess as a goal tender.

Olympics Sextet Lose 10th Straight

The Boston Olympics just lack luck. Last night at the Boston Garden before a crowd of over 11,000 people, they lost their tenth straight game to the Shawinigan sextet, 4 to 3.

Johnny Frennette, the gargantuan defenseman, tallied the winning marker a minute and 22 seconds before the end of the overtime when he fired Lavoie's rebound into an open net.

Frennette, incidentally, also registered the first tally in his team's uphill battle for victory.

The game was fast and rough throughout, with the climax coming in the last minute of the overtime when Russ Martin was given a major penalty for punching Goalie Jerry Bellemere of the Cataracts.

The Olympics at one time held a two-goal margin, the first time in more than two months they have been ahead, but were unable to protect that margin when left short handed in the third period.
